Open Government Data Programme KEY INSIGHTS

Central and local government agencies and Crown Research Institutes were surveyed to understand their level of maturity in different aspects of open data management. Key insights from the results will help shape the development of support and resources to enable agencies to release more open data.

28% do tailor contracts to allow data to be released openly do not, or are not sure they tailor contracts or procurement activities to allow the data to be released openly

24% have a template for dataset documentation

86%

do not, or are not sure they have a checklist or template that guides the creation of dataset documentation

24% have a catalogue of data assets

41% have a catalogue of data assets under development

31% would like to develop a catalogue of their data assets

14%

do include open data training in staff induction

do not have open data awareness and training as a standard part of staff induction

97%

do not, or are not sure they track the financial costs and benefits of open data publication & reuse

Focus areas:

3% track finances

Data management processes

Strategic oversight

Stakeholder engagement & support

